

I AM DIANNA DAVID

Emcee Promotional Biography

Motivating people to make moves that matter to them is the driving force for DiANNA DAVID. From intimate groups to large scale audiences, she has performed and spoken to people through movement storytelling and prop manipulation. Named the BC Arts Champion in 2013 and delivering her speech, "Have the Balls to Follow your Dreams", at TedxRenfrewCollingwood have garnered a large online following of her work that continues to expand. Today, she can be seen performing her Red Ball Movement Show internationally, travelling nation-wide with PlayFair Canada to inspire first year college students, acting as an energizer for TedxStanleyPark for over 3000 people, and putting on shows and playshops for children through her program, "School of Moves". She also shares her 13 years of professional artistry educating like-minded artists through her Artrepreneurship Educational Program, and some of her graduates have become part of her "Faculty of Freshness", aiding in the "School of Moves" Show/Playshops. It is through these many faces that DiANNA plays, and continues to ask herself and others, "What moves you?", and "What is your Red Ball"?

Emcee Introductory Biography

We'd like to introduce DiANNA DAVID – a movement storyteller and prop manipulator who likes to ask, "What Moves YOU?" A woman of many talents and faces, some of her credits include her TedxTalk, "Have the Balls to Follow your Dreams", international performances of her Red Ball Movement Show, energizing audiences of over 3000, and founding "School of Moves" Show and Playshops for children. She also shares her 13 years of experience educating artists through her Artrepreneurship Program; inspiring others to make moves that matter to them. So, let's give a warm welcome to play and asking ourselves, "What moves us?"!